Subject: civil servants are cheap labour!

I strongly oppose to the change.

Civil servants have no bonus, no double-pay; and it is quite impossible to have a business of their own. They have little promotion prospect and have to pay tax every year. Most of their jobs are routine and monotonous. It is really difficult to grade their performance. But they have no complaints because once they are civil servants, they know what they will do and get. They are really cheap labour.

Now you say they can't have the increment as stated in their contracts and the Basic Law? You say it is legitimate to violate the Basic Law when the matter is concerned with the well being of the people in Hong Kong. Civil servants are citizens in Hong Kong too. Come on. Give civil servants back their dignity; give them back what they deserve to have. It is their rights.

What do you expect of the change? Have you considered the morale of the civil servants? Have you thought about the impact on the society as a whole? All you can think of is to reduce expenditure!

I give you a suggestion. Fire the civil servants and ask private enterprise to run the sections and departments in the government. Now you can save money.
